It has a venting system that prevents pressure from building up under the burner in the event of a possible fuel overflow. With an additional tank under the burner, the system also prevents the fuel from flowing outside the bio-fireplace.

The ceramic fiber insert improves safety and also extends and optimizes the firing process. The shutter, which is part of the hearth, serves to regulate the height of the flame and at the same time, when closed, the shutter ends the operation and extinguishes the fireplace completely. An extinguishing handle is included.
